At the conclusion of the feasting Sir Knight Jason H. Brookes, acting as toast master, in a short address turned the attention of the banqueters to the program of informal speechmaking. The remarks of the honored toastmaster were overflowing with witticism. They filled the listeners with spirit and joyous anticipations of the treats designated to follow. The Steubenville commandery was paid a fitting tribute by Sir Knight Brookes and after eulogizing the visiting dele gation and extending to it a most hearty welcome, it being the first op portunity of the evening for this appropriate feature, the program toasts was commenced.

Sir Knight C. J. Davis, a talente member of the Steubenville lodge, was expected to answer to the toast, "Steu benville Valley," but it was impossible for him to be present, and the toastmaster called upon Sir Knight Judge Henry Gregg. The judge was bubbling over with enthusiasm for the subject. He is an honored member of the commandery and takes great pride in his identification with tem plarism. He said there is no lodge known that can take the place of templarism. Its principles and beliefs stand alone. HE PROPOSES TO BUILD

And Will Not Consider an Offer to Take Over His Car Line.

That C. A. Smith and his associates will build the projected line to the East End and that the work will be commenced as soon as possible next spring, is shown in Mr. Smith's recent refusal to sell the franchise. It is asserted that, when approached by parties who wished to purchase his holdings in the proposed line, he refused to even place a price on it. Mr. Smith told the intended purchasers that the right of way is as valuable to him as to any other person and that he intended to build a line over it before the time limit in the franchise.

The intended purchasers were for the most part local men of means who are interested in East End real estate and business affairs. They consider the proposed road a good investment, and were willing to buy the franchise and build it. With the additional street railway facilities they hoped to boom the growth of the suburb. The local capitalists had interested some outside capital and a deal would have been made had Mr. Smith been willing to part with the franchise.

A representative of the intended purchasers approached Mr. Smith a short time ago to talk over the project and to make an offer for the however, after Mr. Smith's positive declination to sell.

TRENTON VISIT DUFFY'S

From a Staff Correspondent.

Trenton, N. J., December 12 .- Soft coal is so scarce in Trenton that two of the largest general ware potteries have been forced to shut down their kiln departments. The plants that are now idle are the Etruria and East Trenton potteries. Half a dozen other potteries are short of coal but as supply is expected in a few days it eral coal famine.

The present scarcity of soft coal is leading manufacturers said yesterday that he had placed orders for soft coal six weeks ago but up to this time he had received but one car. Most of the local potteries are firing their kilns with bituminous coal. During the big coal strike last winter when it was an utter impossibility to obtain sufficient anthracite to operate the potteries, many of them had their kilns remodeled and since then have been burn ing soft coal.

C. A. Smith Will Not Dispose of East End Franchise.

HE PROPOSES TO BUILD

And Will Not Consider an Offer to Take Over His Car Line.

That C. A. Smith and his associates will build the projected line to the East End and that the work will be commenced as soon as possible next spring, is shown in Mr. Smith's recent refusal to sell the franchise. It is asserted that, when approached by parties who wished to purchase his holdings in the proposed line, he refused to even place a price on it. Mr. Smith told the intended purchasers that the right of way is as valuable to him as to any other person and that he intended to build a line over it before the time limit in the franchise.

The intended purchasers were for the most part local men of means who are interested in East End real estate and business affairs. They consider the proposed road a good investment, and were willing to buy the franchise and build it. With the additional street railway facilities they hoped to boom the growth of the suburb. The local capitalists had interested some outside capital and a deal would have been made had Mr. Smith been willing to part with the franchise.

A representative of the purchasers approached Mr. Smith a short time ago to talk over the project and to make an offer for the property. The conference was brief, however, after Mr. Smith's positive declination to sell.

In the matter of drying, this condition is particularly noticeable, but that might be attribu ted in a measure to the fact that fuel in the east is very much higher in price than in the other section re ferred to. Throughout the east there are possibly hundreds of plants where the out-door system of drying is employed, and it is hardly possible to find a half dozen common brick works of any size in the other district where such a procedure could be witnessed The result of all this is that the brickmakers in one section are enabled to operate their plants possibly eight months in the year, while under the other conditions, continuous operations almost the entire year may be profitably maintained.

That is, the equipment employed is more extensive and modern, and as a consequence the product is better. In the matter of drying, this condition is particularly noticeable, but that might be attributed in a measure to the fact that fuel in the east is very much higher in price than in the other section referred to. Throughout the east there are possibly hundreds of plants where the out-door system of drying is employed, and it is hardly possible to find a half dozen common brick works of any size in the other district where such a procedure could be witnessed The result of all this is that the brick makers in one section are enabled to operate their plants possibly eight months in the year, while under the other conditions, continuous operations almost the entire year may be profitably maintained.

held a position in the patent office at Washington. Her brother, who was a soldier, having been captured, she determined to go south in an effort to secure his freedom. Just before departing she gave notice through the press that she would receive stores and money for the wounded soldiers at the front, which she would personally distribute. The appeal was so liberally answered from all over the country that she filled a storehouse in Washington. Miss Barton went to the front and after the death of her brother continued to nurse and relieve suffering

In 1869 she went to Europe to recuperate her broken health. The next war broke out, and Miss Barton did effective work among the wounded, especially at Strassburg. From Strassburg she went to Paris to relieve suffering after the fall of the commune. Returning home, Miss Barton worked unceasingly to have the United States eign the international Red Cross convention treaty. In 1881 congress pass ed the necessary legislation, and the American Association of the Red Cross was founded, with Miss Barton as its president. The treaty was signed by President Arthur, and on March 16 1882, it was ratified by the senate.

Since that time the history of the Red Cross in this country has been the history of Clara Barton. It was she who proposed the "American amendment" allowing Red Cross societies to work when "fire, flood, famine, pestilence or any other disaster sufficient to call for public relief" occurred. CLARA BARTON, FOUNDER OF THE RED CROSS IN AMERICA.

OF AN ORPHAN BOY Through Her Efforts the United States Signed the International Treaty-Great Work of the Organization For the Relief of Suffering

The fourth annual meeting of the American National Red Cross at Washington, perhaps the most important in its history, recalls the controversy aroused last winter over the proposed reorganization of the society, which re-

The the Flack homes and sad scenes have land, is the mother of the much sought was also urged. This convention was signed by twelve European nations in

At the opening of the civil war she held a position in the patent office at Washington. Her brother, who was a soldier, having been captured, she determined to go south in an effort to secure his freedom. Just before de parting she gave notice through the press that she would receive stores and money for the wounded soldiers at the front, which she would personally distribute. The appeal was so liberally answered from all over the country that she filled a storehouse in Washington. Miss Barton went to the front and after the death of her brother continued to nurse and relieve suffering

In 1869 she went to Europe to recuperate her broken health. The next year, however, the Franco-Prussian war broke out, and Miss Barton did effective work among the wounded, especially at Strassburg. From Strassburg she went to Paris to relieve suffering after the fall of the commune. Returning home, Miss Barton worked unceasingly to have the United States eign the international Red Cross convention treaty. In 1881 congress passed the necessary legislation, and the American Association of the Red Cross was founded, with Miss Barton as its president. The treaty was signed by President Arthur, and on March 16 1882, it was ratified by the senate.

Since that time the history of the Red Cross in this country has been the history of Clara Barton. It was she who proposed the "American amendment" allowing Red Cross societies to work when "fire, flood, famine, pestilence or uny other disaster sufficient to call for public relief" occurred. Her amendment was agreed to by the congress of Berne, whose ratification was neces-

Such events as the Knights Templar banquet of last evening, bringing together scores of prominent people of Steubenville and East Liverpool, are well calculated to foster a friendly feeling between the two cities, and we hope to see more social affairs of the same sort. The entertainment was a great success from start to finish and the Knights deserve hearty congratulations.

Democratic editors would be glad to see the Republican disagreement and dissatisfaction with the administration, which they write so much about. Unfortunately for them, it is a creature of the imagination, as they are well aware, and their slang-whanging deceives no one, not even themselves.

A Japanese Wedding.

A Japanese wedding is a quaintly pretty ceremony. The bride, dressed in a white silk kimono and white veil, sits on the floor facing her affianced husband. Near them are two tables, upon one of which are two cups, a bottle of sake and a kettle with two spouts. On the other are a miniature plum tree, typifying the beauty of the bride; a miniature fir tree, representing the strength of the bridegroom, and a stork stands on a tortoise, signifying long life and felicity. The bride and bridegroom drink alternately from the twospouted kettle in token that they will henceforth share each other's joys and sorrows. After the wedding the bride's veil is laid away to be used as her shroud when she dies.

Sir Knight John M. Cook was to have spoken on "Mental Telepathy," but was not present and Sir Knight the United States navy, is now on the ject of which he is thoroughly famillar, "The X-Rays." He was not in the mood to talk much about the subject however, and caused mirth by his re marks on the ladies. He said that when God made man and wife He made man for the strongest, but then to make amends for that He made wo man's tongue the longest. After further eulogy, he directed his attention to the general good of the lodge and portrayed its admirable features in a fitting manner. He concluded by stating to be knights templar is only a duty one owes to God, his neighbor and himself.

City. Several changes in the city proper ty and some improvements by the way of a new building are now in progress Work was begun last Monday on a new tool house for protection of the city tools. W. E. Lowary has the contract for the work, which was let by the board of public service. It will be located so as to be convenient of access to all.

At the West End hose house, alterations are being made which practieally makes the place a sub fire station. Under the direction of the board of public safety a room will be par- called to Tecumseh, Mich., by the critters for a paid fireman, who will be at that place. appointed later. Quarters for a horse will be established in another part of the building. The hose wagon will be remodeled so that it can also be used Emissary of Hamilton Dies Deserved purchased for the horse. Everything [Copyright 1903 by American Press Association] is being placed in firstclass shape and when everything is in readiness the department will be in much better pally directed to Washington and his shape for fighting fire in the West End.

Incautious Coasters.

The recent fall of snow and the consequent good sliding has brought out the usual number of boys coasting numerous than in the east. In this and sliding on the streets. Many citizens have complained of the recklessness of boys on the street. Valuable the frontier Indians to harass the trees have been barked, the walks made slippery as glass and people on the streets put in danger. There is a city ordinance against sliding on the streets, but it is not much enforced. Whenever the boys are driven off one spot they congregate at another place and resume their play.

RED FLAG PROVED FATAL.

During the days of the Revolutionary war, when attention was princiragged army east of the mountains, there were plenty of thrilling occurrences on the Ohio frontier and in what were known as the "black settlements" of Pennsylvania. Here life was more strenuous and dangers more everything in their power to induce American settlers, and they seemed to think that war made on isolated settlements and on helpless women and children by means of merciless savages was an achievement of which to be legitimately proud. In truth they made a record in those awful years which in this day, to say the least, does not at all read well.

The British commander at Detroit Governor Hamilton, was the leading genius in the harassing warfare which was carried on by the Indians in Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. He sent out emissaries to stir up the redskins, and sometimes led them here. The people of Miss Bunting's in person. A poor business for home town have shown great interest a white man, but there were such men in her and good crowds have been in then, as there probably would be now under similar conditions. These British agents not only led in attacks on the white settlers, but they also strove to seduce the settlers from their adherence to the American cause, offering many inducements to all who would become Tories. In the autumn of 1777 a tragic incident occurred in the Blacklick region of Pennsylvania, not far from the present town of Blairsville. In that section was a fortified settler's home, which was something in the nature of a backwoods blockhouse. It was called Fort Wallace and had a palisaded enclosure of about half an acre. It was in the old Derry settlement portion of Westmoreland county, between the old Forbes road and the Conemaugh river. This fort was sharply atlovember, the Indians hidden in the forest on one side of the fort keeping up a heavy rifle fire. While this was going on a white man was seen to emerge from the woods on the opposite side of the structure and Miss Leona Bereford, of the West approach the fort, wading up the tail-End, will spent Sunday with Pittsburg race of Wallace's mill. with seven balls through his body. After the fight he was picked up. In a bag suspended about his neck he had copies of Governor Hamilton's proclamation offering rewards to any persons who would desert the American cause. Two of the death-dealing bullets had pierced the bag and its contents. It seemed evident that the unfortunate man was one of Hamilton's secret agents, though what his purpose was in approaching the fort returned from Columbus, where he at- at such a time has always remained tended the convention of city auditors undiscovered. Bowling Hints,

A Champion Gives Valuable Advice to Beginners.

By Herman Warker.
[The noted Philadelphia bowling expert.] It is a well known fact that bowling has now reached a stage that to become an expert one should frequently change his methods according to the style of his opponent.

Many experts are firm believers in speed alone as the best way to roll up big scores.

This, to my mind, is a mistaken idea, and unless the bowler has added ac curacy to his list of accomplishments he will be confronted with a collection of splits that will offset his speed.

Beginners are apt to cultivate speed at the start and accuracy afterward. taking the center of the alley, and are

Studying this method, I found that by developing more speed the twist ball was far more effective than the straight, speedy one.

When I had perfected both styles of play, I carefully watched my opponent's idea and could always tell after the third or fourth frame whether I had a hard game or not.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Are in Progress Which Will Be of Great Advantage to the .

City. Several changes in the city property and some improvements by the way of a new building are now in progress. Work was begun last Monday on a new tool house for protection of the city tools. W. E. Lowary has the contract for the work, which was let by the board of public service. It will he located so as to be convenient of access to all.

At the West End hose house, alter ations are being made which practically makes the place a sub fire station. Under the direction of the board of public safety a room will be parters for a paid fireman, who will be at that place. appointed later. Quarters for a horse will be established in another part of the building. The hose wagon will be remodeled so that it can also be used as a patrol wagon and a new harness purchased for the horse. Everything is being placed in firstclass shape and when everything is in readiness the department will be in much better pally directed to Washington and his shape for fighting fire in the West End.

Incautious Coasters.

The recent fall of snow and the consequent good sliding has brought out the usual number of boys coasting numerous than in the east. In this and sliding on the streets. Many citizens have complained of the recklessness of boys on the street. Valuable trees have been barked, the walks made slippery as glass and people on the streets put in danger. There is a city ordinance against sliding on the streets, but it is not much enforced. Whenever the boys are driven off one spot they congregate at another place and resume their play.

Here life was more strenuous and dangers more region the British agents were doing everything in their power to induce the frontier Indians to harass the American settlers, and they seemed to think that war made on isolated settlements and on helpless women and children by means of merciless savages was an achievement of which to be legitimately proud. In truth they made a record in those awful years which in this day, to say the least, does not at all read well.

The British commander at Detroit, Governor Hamilton, was the leading genius in the harassing warfare which was carried on by the Indians in Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania. He sent out emissaries to stir up the redskins, and sometimes led them here. The people of Miss Bunting's in person. Bowling Hints,

A Champion Gives Valuable Advice to Beginners.

By Herman Warker.
[The noted Philadelphia bowling expert.] It is a well known fact that bowling has now reached a stage that to become an expert one should frequently change his methods according to the style of his opponent.

Many experts are firm believers in speed alone as the best way to roll up big scores.

This, to my mind, is a mistaken idea, and unless the bowler has added accuracy to his list of accomplishments he will be confronted with a collection of splits that will offset his speed.

Beginners are apt to cultivate speed at the start and accuracy afterward, taking the center of the alley, and are surprised to find the ball hitting the head pins full on, and in nine times out of ten the ball goes straight through the bunch, leaving the end pins standing, leaving an almost impossible split

When I first started to bowl, I had as a tutor a man who used fair speed twist ball, always starting from the side of the alley, hitting the head pin at an angle, the ball invariably spreading the bunch in such a way that the pins fell inward, giving what is known eration. as a perfect strike or leaving such pins standing that a spare was an easy

Studying this method, I found that by developing more speed the twist ball was far more effective than the straight, speedy one.

When I had perfected both styles of play, I carefully watched my opponent's idea and could always tell after the third or fourth frame whether I had a hard game or not.

In all my important matches I have

Whiskey and Beer Habit

A SAFE, SURE AND HARMLESS SPECIFIC. Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes. "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestive organs to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary: "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Mr. E. T. Sims, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:
"Use my name as a twenty-year drunkard restored to manhood and health by four boxes of 'ORRINE.' It is a wonderful and marvelous cure for the drink habit."

Mrs. E. Wycliff, New York City, writes:
"ORRINE cured my husband, who was a steady drunkard for many years. He now has no desire for stimulants, his health is good and he is fully restored to manhood. He used only five boxes of 'ORRINE.'"

Mrs. W. L. D., Helena, Mout, writes: "I was born with a love of whiskey and drank it for thirty-two years. It finally brought me to the gutter, homeless and friendless. I was powerless to resist the craving and would steal and lie to get whiskey. Four boxes of 'ORRINE' cured me of all desire and I now hate the smell of lingor."

Price fi per box, 6 boxes for 55. Mailed in plain, sealed wrapper by Orrins Company, and the worst in the world. 'ORRINE.'

Mr. U. L. R., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I am satisfied that drunkenness is a discase and the worst in the world. 'ORRINE.'

Whiskey and Beer Habit

"ORRINE,"

Physicians pronounce drunkenness a disease of the nervous system, creating a morbid craving for a stimulant. Continued indulgence in whiskey, beer or wine eats away the stomach lining and stupefies the digestive organs, thus destroying the digestion and ruining the health. No "will power" can heal the inflamed stomach membranes, "ORRINE" permanently removes the craving for liquor by acting directly on the affected nerves, restoring the stomach and digestiveorgans to normal conditions, improving the appetite and restoring the health. No sanitarium treatment necessary "ORRINE" can be taken at your own home without publicity. Can be given secretly if desired.

CURE GUARANTEED OR MONEY REFUNDED.

The stored to health and has no desire ferdrink."

Mr. U. L. R., Kansas City, Mo., writes:
"I am satisfied that drunkenness is a disease and the worst in the world. 'OR RINE,' iu my opinion, will cure any case if taken as

Mr. E. T. Sims, Brooklyn, N. Y., writest "Use my name as a twenty-year drunkard restored to manhood and health by four boxes of 'ORRINE.' It is a wonderful and marvelous cure for the drink habit.' Mrs. E. Wycliff, New York City, writest "ORRINE cured my husband, who was a steady drunkard for many years. He now has no desire for stimulants, his health is good and he is fully restored to manhood. He used only five boxes of 'ORRINE.' "I have waited one year before writing you of the permanent cure of my son. He took sanitarium treatment, as well as other advertised cures, but they all failed until we gave him 'ORRINE.' He is now fully restored to health and has no desire for drink."

"Will you," said Nelson, pouring out bumpers and touching his glass violently against West's-"will you, Mr. West? Then I hope I shall die in the next batle." He sailed a few days later, and West painted "The Death of Nelson."-

"A sure way to break yourself of the habit of going to a barber shop to get shaved is to travel in Europe," said a man who has traveled. "I remember that when I first went to Europe I thought that I would never be able to learn to shave myself and that I was helpless so far as this was concerned. I didn't finish my trip through Europe before I took up shaving, and now I shave myself all the time. The barber shops in Europe, except in England and a few of the larger cities, are the worst of their kind in the world. There are no modern conveniences and mighty little of a sanitary nature. The chairs are uncomfortable, and the barbers are indifferent about how they shave you or what they do with you. They place a big bowl in your lap, and when they have finished with you the supposition is that you will wash your own face in the bowl. Owing to pressure of grain there is still delay in handling freight promptly at a few western points, but as a rule traffic facilities are adequate, and railway earnings for November show an average gain of 4 per cent over last year. It is significant evidence of the attitude of consumers that while output of pig iron declined to about 1,000,000 tons in November, the lowest point in several years, furnace stocks rose to 658,107 tons, far exceeding all recent records. Such a striking discrepancy indicates clearly the extent of contraction in this leading branch of manufacture. From present indications it seems almost certain that the situation will-show some improvement by the end of this month, although inventories always retard operations during December.

Throughout the industry, however. there is a growing sentiment of hope-fulness regarding the new year. Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

Case Now Goes to United States Court of Appeals-United Mine Workers Active in Prosecution-Laing Is Prominent Coal Operator.

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 12.-United States Judge John Jay Jackson decided the habeas corpus case of John Laing and Stewart Burt, holding that they were federal officers acting under process of the United States court when they killed John Harless and was only a wooden stockade and earth therefore justified and not amenable to state courts.

Laing is an operator and Hurt is in his employ. They accompanied Deputy Marshal Cunningham last winter mouth of Turtle Creek. The attacking to arrest Harless, a leader among the striking miners, for whom Cunningham had a rule in contempt for violating United States Judge Keller's battle soon degenerated into a massa-"blanket injunction." Harless fied cre, and late in the afternoon the litwhen Cunningham and others appeared at his house. As he went by Laing, Hurt fired and killed him, claiming self-defense, as Harless, with revolver n hand, was defying arrest.

Laing and Hurt were held in Ra leigh county jail and denied bail. After their indictment a writ of habeas corpus was sued out of the United States court. At first Judge Sanders, of the state court, refused to obey the writ, but afterwards allowed the marshal to take the men from the county jail. Judge Jackson heard the case last June, reserving his decision until now.

Attorneys for the state and the United Mine Workers of America, who are prosecuting Laing and Hurt, gave notice of appeal and judgment was suspended to give them time to prepare the proper papers. This will be done and the case will go to the United States circuit court of appeals.

BATTLE OF BRADDOCK

Victims of Massacre Remain Unburied for Years.

Attempt Finally Made to Gather Up Unhonored Bones of Dead, but Work Was Done Hurriedly -- Laborers Unearthed Skeletons.

[Copyright 1908 by American Press Association]
On July 9, 1755, occurred where the city of Braddock, Pa., now stands, one of the strangest and most fatal battles of which history gives us any record. General Edward Braddock was pushing ahead with an advance force of over 1,200 men to reach and capture Fort Duquesne before the French could throw into it any fresh troops from Canada. General Braddock did net fear the dangers of the American forest, and his idea was that once he got his army to the fort he could capture it quickly, and in this he was undoubtedly correct, for he had cannon with him, and the famous French fort work. On July 9 Braddock's force was at tacked shortly after noon, just as it party was made up of about 100 Frenchmen, less than 200 Canadians and over 600 Indians. What should have been a tle remnant of the brave array which Braddock led fled with their dying commander, leaving almost a thousand of their number dead or dying in the awful Black Forest. Those who were left wounded on the field were soon killed and scalped by the slaughter-maddened Indians. For three years the bones of these unfortunate hundreds lay just where the victims had fallen. Their flesh was a rich feast for the wild beasts of the forest. A gentleman writing in after years said that for a long time after this battle the bears in the Western Pennsylvania woods seemed to think that they had a right to eat any person they came across, so enamored had they become of human flesh. In 1758 General Forbes marched his army across the mountain from Philadelphia, and so terrorized the French that they blew up the fort and fled. Soon after taking possession of the site of Pittsburg parties were sent out to Braddock's fatal field, who did what they could to gather up the unhonored bones of the victims of that July slaughter. Such as could be got ten easily together were buried in great trenches. But the work was not completely done, for skeletons in plenty were found under the leaves and in the thickets for many years afterwards. The work of that day was one of sadness and horror to Forbes' men. They themselves had just finished such a march of alarms and uncertainties as the one which had ended so tragically by the ford of the Monongahela. They could appreciate as no others the feelings which were in the minds of those doomed troopers toiling amid the early summer heats through the great Black Forest of the Ohio. And they could best of all understand the desperation which laid hold on them when they realized that they had been lead into a death trap by an unseen foe and could do nothing but stand still and fire at the trees and bushes till the fatal ball should strike them done with loving yet trembling hands for they had taken the same risks, only they had been more fortunate.

When the Pennsylvania railroad Hardware, Class, Mixed Paints, was built the workmen who graded the roadbed along through the present city of Braddock dug up great masses of the buried skeletons. In the same place they found several hundred British guineas, which discovery gave rise to many wild tales of immense treasure abandoned by the defeated army and still hidden somewhere on the field. Credulous persons often searched for this treasure, but they never found it, for the baggage which Laxative cold cure. Money contained Braddock's money-chest was all captured by the French and reported in the accounts of the victory sent to Montreal. The bones dug up by the railroad men were some of them buried near by, but far the greater part of them were cast aside. And thus it was that of all the hun dreds who fell in the battle of the Monongahela but a chance few ever were honored with permanent burial C. L. SMITH.

Mothers and JUSTIFIABLE KILLING BATTLE OF BRADDOCK Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

Judge Holds That Slayers of Harless Are Not Amenable to State Law.

NOTICE OF APPEAL IS CIVEN

Case Now Goes to United States Court of Appeals-United Mine Workers Active in Prosecution-Laing Is Prominent Coal Operator.

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 12.-United States Judge John Jay Jackson decided the habeas corpus case of John Laing and Stewart Burt, holding that they were federal officers acting under process of the United States court when they killed John Harless and therefore justified and not amenable to state courts.

Laing is an operator and Hurt is in his employ. They accompanied Deputy Marshal Cunningham last winter to arrest Harless, a leader among the striking miners, for whom Cunningham had a rule in contempt for violating United States Judge Keller's 'blanket injunction." Harless fled when Cunningham and others appeared at his house. As he went by Laing, Hurt fired and killed him, claiming self-defense, as Harless, with revolver in hand, was defying arrest.

Laing and Hurt were held in Raleigh county jail and denied ball. After their indictment a writ of habeas corpus was sued out of the United States court. At first Judge Sanders, of the state court, refused to obey the writ, out afterwards allowed the marshal to take the men from the county jail. Judge Jackson heard the case last June, reserving his decision until now.

Attorneys for the state and the United Mine Workers of America, who are prosecuting Laing and Hurt, gave notice of appeal and judgment was suspended to give them time to prepare the proper papers. This will be done and the case will go to the United States circuit court of appeals.

NERVY CHICAGO BURGLARS.

Sell Drinks All Night, Hold Up Customers and Disappear With Cash. Chicago, Dec. 12 .- In seizing a saloon in State street after midnight, serving drinks to customers until the bartender arrived, and then making their escape with all the money in the cash drawer, three burglars showed the most startling effrontery the police have ever known in Chicago's crime annals.

The bandits took possession of the saloon of William Burns, 3704 State street, and spent the night in revelry. The burglar who acted as bartender put on an apron, and when the regular bartender arrived at 5 o'clock he was still mixing drinks, though he was so intoxicated he could scarcely stand.

"Burns sent me here," said the man to J. J. Cavanaugh, the regular bartender.

The bar was covered with empty bottles and with dirty glasses. He took off his apron and walked out to join his friends.

"Let's have something to drink," said the man.

Cavanaugh was ready to serve them. All three took whisky. The one who for they had taken the same risks acted as bartender then paid the bill only they had been more fortunate. from the money he had previously taken from the cash register. They then held up all the men in the saloon, getting $65, took the money from the cash drawer, covering the bartender with a gun, and then ran off.

Actor Plays While Son Lies Dead. New York, Dec. 12.—Forced to smile and jest through the lines of "Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner" at the Criterion that his audience might not be disappointed, William Faversham successfully concealed his grief through the play. At his home, 214 East Seventeenth street, his newly born son was dead. The baby was born at 1 o'clock, but lived only an hour. Mrs. Faversham, known to the stage as Julie Opp, was married to Faversham in Enland a little more than a year ago.

Married at Dead Mother's Bier. Bowling Green, O., Dec. 12.-Miss Hettle Giles and A. C. Norris, of Rockford, Ill., were married beside the bier of the bride's dead mother. Rev. Frank Essert performed the wedding ceremony for the daughter and then conducted the mother's frineral. The latter was killed last Monday by being struck with a stone thrown into the air as the result of a blast in a sewe: It was the desire of Mr. Norris that the wedding should take place before his bride's mother was buried.

University Loses by Fire. New Haven, Conn., Dec. 12.-Yale early this morning, when the forestry school building was completely gutted by fire. The loss involved is estimated at over $100,000 on the building alone, while many fine specimens of plants and trees, which cannot be replaced, were destroyed.

FOOD FOR BEASTS OF FOREST Attempt Finally Made to Gather Up Unhonored Bones of Dead, but Work Was Done Hurriedly -- Laborers

Unearthed Skeletons.

[Copyright 1908 by American Press Association] On July 9, 1755, occurred where the city of Braddock, Pa., now stands, one of the strangest and most fatal battles of which history gives us any record. General Edward Braddock was push ing ahead with an advance force of over 1,200 men to reach and capture Fort Duquesne before the French could throw into it any fresh troops F. E. ALLEN'S from Canada. General Braddock did not fear the dangers of the American forest, and his idea was that once he forest, and his idea was that once he got his army to the fort he could capture it quickly, and in this he was unpressed air. Facial massage. doubtedly correct, for he had cannon with him, and the famous French fort was only a wooden stockade and earth-On July 9 Braddock's force was at tacked shortly after noon, just as it had crossed the Monongahela near the mouth of Turtle Creek. The attacking party was made up of about 100 Frenchmen, less than 200 Canadians and over 600 Indians. What should have been a battle soon degenerated into a massa cre, and late in the afternoon the lit. tle remnant of the brave array which Braddock led fled with their dying commander, leaving almost a thousand of their number dead or dying in the awful Black Forest. Those who were left wounded on the field were soon killed and scalped by the slaughter-maddened Indians. For three years the bones of these unfortunate hundreds lay just where the victims had fallen. Their flesh was a rich feast for the wild beasts of the forest. A gentleman writing in after years said that for a long time after this battle the bears in the Western Pennsylvania woods seemed to think that they had a right to eat any person they came across, so enamored had they become of human flesh. In 1758 General Forbes marched his

army across the mountain from Philadelphia, and so terrorized the French that they blew up the fort and fled. Soon after taking possession of the site of Pittsburg parties were sent out to Braddock's fatal field, who did what they could to gather up the unhonored bones of the victims of that July slaughter. Such as could be gotten easily together were buried in great trenches. But the work was not completely done, for skeletons in plenty were found under the leaves and in the thickets for many years afterwards. The work of that day was one of sadness and horror to Forbes' men. They themselves had just finished such a march of alarms and uncertainties as the one which had ended so tragically by the ford of the Monongahela. They could appreciate as no others the feeling? which were in the minds of those doomed troopers toiling amid the early summer heats through the great Black Forest of the Ohio. And they could best of all understand the desperation which laid hold on them when they realized that they had been lead into a death trap by an unseen foe and could do nothing but stand still and fire at the trees and bushes till the fatal ball should strike them down. The work of Forbes' men was done with loving yet trembling hands

When the Pennsylvania railroad was built the workmen who graded the roadbed along through the present city of Braddock dug up great masses of the buried skeletons. In the same place they found several hundred British guineas, which discovery gave rise to many wild tales of immense treasure abandoned by the defeated army and still hidden somewhere on the field. Credulous persons often searched for this treasure, but they contained Braddock's money-chest was all captured by the French and reported in the accounts of the victory sent to Montreal. The bones dug up by the railroad men were some of them buried near by, but far the greater part of them were cast aside. And thus it was that of all the hundreds who fell in the battle of the Monongahela but a chance few ever were honored with permanent burial. C. L. SMITH.

The Allegheny river is now a very quet and peaceable stream, flowing through a country where agriculture. manufacturing, mining and oil drilling occupy the full attention of the people. The closest and most loving observer of children does not report evidence of Nights" and the other ancient fairy

These stories were not invented for children. They represent periods when

Golden Rule and the subtleties of present day deportment were alike unrecognized. Obversely, wrong ethics in a story that a child must, whether condsly or not, relate to his own experience are incalculably injurious.

A child who would be made to weep r have a germ of cruelty implanted n him, if of a harder nature, by a recital of a boy tying a tin can to a cat's fail, will listen unaffected to the loody deeds of Jack the Giant Killer. Vices beyond the child's comprehension, evil happenings entirely removed from his sphere either by time or conditions, may be read by him with no resulting injury.

One would not suggest such literature in selecting a children's library. but as between that and the juvenile iction that tends to give its readers false notions of their relations to society no one who has honestly studied children will hesitate.

The long derided Sunday school book style, in which the infant hero, after having borne oppression meekly, dies young, enjoining his elders to follow his example so as to meet him in heaven, has fortunately gone out of existence. But those books were not more harmful than some later popular fictions with their finer art and greater realism.

"Tom Sawyer" is a book not for children, but for the enjoyment of mature minds. One must have the judgment of experience to receive without danser of harm the unnatural and exaggerated presentation of life in the latter part of Tom's adventures.

It is pretty certain that a child's spiritual nature would be safer with the "Decameron" than with those stories written by a good woman from a good motive, the Elsie books. Still, there must be ability of some sort behind the widest popularity and "one of the largest literary incomes" in the United States, which is what we are told of the author of these series. Moreover, children are wise and shrewd critics except in so far as they are limited by poverty of experience. But it is hard to realize that the most hexperienced child can find "convincingness" in a little girl who, though radiantly beautiful, excessively rich and virtuous as an early Christian martyr, is disliked by her father and persecuted by her other relatives; who at the age of eight years plays the plano acceptably, knits beautiful silk purses unassisted and (notwithstanding persecution otherwise) spends, which supervision, considerable sums of money. All this may appeal by the

Any story that turns a child's attention to the faults of its parents is injurious beyond the neutralizing power of whatever good it may contain. Fortunate are we in the passing of the story in which the sainted heroine devoted herself to the conversion of her mother or the correction of her father's faults of temper.

The public libraries, as well as the public schools, are doing immense good by their gradual but steady elevation at Christmas time has brought of the standard of children's reading. Wornout volumes from authors who, though not long ago esteemed as providers of juvenile fiction, are now recognized as false of ethics are replaced mous companions, the Lucy books, by new books of a higher moral excelence and a certainly not inferior day, in the period of the greatest and charm. An attendant at one of the the best production of children's books best children's libraries in this counever known, there are no stories that try reports that the author oftenest taken out by boys is Trowbridge. What a stride from the taste that not of the marked improvement in chil- very long ago regarded Oliver Optic dren's taste, though the improvement and Horatio Alger as standards for is not a little in the judgment of the boys who were too sensible and too well trained for Dick Deadwood or Three Fingered Bill!

The natural evolution of the fairy tale has been greatly forwarded by the kindergartners. The best modern conceptions in this class of juvenile fiction delicately and subtly carry a lesson while preserving the enchantment of the old time unlessoned tale.

A particularly charming example of the modern development of the fairy story is Katherine Pyle's "Counterpane Fairy." Like the old standards in children's literature and like, among many, the books of Mary Mapes Dodge, this dear little story reveals its excellence to the mature as well as to the child mind.

It is not necessary that every story for a child should embody a lesson. What is necessary is that if it attempts to convey a lesson it should be a true one; that it should aid in giving the child the proper idea of his relation to those about him.

Best is the lesson taught through the action of the story, so unobtrusively that the little reader will be unaware that he is receiving instruction. A child may be merely impatient of sermonizing in a story, but an attempt to happenings always drew a lecture from instruct under pretense of entertaining him arouses his resentment.

Above all things, a child values sincerity, and the story that holds and influences him must either do all its teaching by the simple course of its events or must plainly declare its les-

Mrs. Ewing in her winsome stories loses none of her little readers' interest by her frank avowal of a lesson So sympathetic is her art that the child feels she is talking from his point of view instead of forcing upon him an arbitrary standpoint. Such writing shows a rare insight into child nature. Surely it is the "preaching" alone in Miss Edgeworth's stories which have made them unfashionable. To one who remembers a childhood of blissful absorption in "The Parents' Assistant" it is inconceivable that any child old enough to understand their language could fail to find delight in "Simple Susan," "Lazy Lawrence" and "The False Kev." Perhaps the Rollo resurrection is but the precursor of a genuine revival of Miss Edgeworth, whose stories combine with an unsurpassed dramatic interest the qualities that go most surely to the unconscious strengthening of character.

A child not only may be reached in many ways; he must be. His literature must be varied, almost miscellaneous. We have indeed famous national examples of great intellects nourished on less than half a dozen books, but we speak now of the average child. Besides, there is no knowing what sufferings of semistarvation those mighty intellects endured in their unnourished childhood. So you may convey your moral in any manner you prefer if it does not produce the effect of being forced upon the reader. A roomful of children will listen ea gerly to incidents in the lives of our historic heroes and join not less eagerly in the discussion of the lesson to be drawn from them. Be the appeal to their own sense of right, not a mere dictum of yours, and they will take pleasure in the exercise of moral judg-

M. Lecky's Torrent of Speech. A very brilliant Irish lady some years ago arranged that Mr. Lecky should meet an able and famous Irishman of very advanced opinions in politics. It was intended that they should exchange views, and the Irishman had a good deal to say about Mr. Lecky's later work and was well able to put what he had to say in the most effective language. The door opened and Mr. Lecky was announced. He was introduced to the Irishman, and before the latter had time to say anything the historian began a political harangue which he kept going without cessation the whole time he was there. The Irishman at first tried to break in with a word, but he was swept away, as it were, in the unceasing flow of Mr. Lecky's language; so after a time he sat in amused bewilderment, waiting until nature gave out. But when Mr. Lecky felt he was getting exhausted he rose from his chair, shook hands with the hostess and her guest, keeping on talking all the time. They came out with him to the top of the staircase, but could not get a word edgeways even then, as he talked all the way down to the door and was even in an unfinished sentence when the door was shut behind him. They looked at each other and roared .- Freeman's Journal.

Whitman as an Editor. Whitman wrote on anything and everything, after the fashion of editors, sometimes with earnestness, sometimes with undisguised indifference. Here is a sample of an occasional sort: "To cold water. Strange, but true." For "but" most people would read "if." The man who must supply a column at a given hour every day cannot make the quality uniform. The Origin of Messotist.

Colonel von Siegen, a Dutch artist of German extraction, holding an appointment at the court of the landgrave of Hesse-Cassel, was the in ventor of mezzotint, that branch of engraving which comes nearest to nature, though it is far from being the best means of artistic expression.

It dates from about 1611 and is said to have been suggested by the rust on a weapon which a soldier was cleaning. The first fruits of this newly discovered process consisted of a picture of the landgrave's mother, the dowager landgravine, which Siegen presented at court, stating that no copperplate engraver or artist could explain or imagine how it was done.

Evelyn, in his "Sculptura." 1662, attributes the invention to Prince Rupert. An original letter of Siegen's still in existence proves this to be an error, for Siegen met Prince Rupert in Brussels in 1654 and disclosed the proc ess to him then and there, knowing that the prince had already practiced etching.

More than a hundred engravers in mezzotint did for the pictures of Sir Joshua Reynolds what line engravers had done for Raphael.

Featherweight Champion Meets His Clever Rival Dec. 29 In Frisco.

Young Corbett's coming battle with Eddie Hanlon, to occur Dec. 29 at the Hayes Valley Athletic club in San Francisco, is attracting considerable in terest even at this early date.

Corbett is confident that he will finish Hanlon in short order, although he realizes that the Pacific coast scrapper has a powerful punch and is fast and enduring. Hanlon made a very creditable stand against Corbett in their last fight and consequently feels that he has a chance to defeat the conqueror of Terry McGovern. His backers are of the same opinion and, although seeking liberal odds, seem disposed to support their belief in a very practical

Young Corbett is somewhat stout, but will speedily come down to his legitimate fighting weight. He is at his best cure the toothache plunge your feet in at 127 pounds. While the champion never dissipates, he does not believe in maintaining top notch condition when not preparing to fight.

When out of training Young Corbett takes life comparatively easy, smoking a cigar now and then and occasionally taking a drink. He is of the opinion that the man who does not relax while not in training will last but a very

"If Hanlon comes after me he will get his quietus early in the game. Should be resort to sprinting tactics of course he'll stay longer. He will not any considerable time, however. He is my plum, and I intend to pluck him from the pugilistic tree.

"I would have liked to meet Ben Jordan in San Francisco," continued Corbett, "but it seems that he is not very strong in the west. With Jordan out of it at present, I have made arrangements to fight Hanlon and wipe out that draw he got with me. I was not at my best at that time. If I had fought Hanlon just about the time met McGovern I think the result would have been different. I am confident of victory, and I have no fear regarding my ability to defend the championship

Hanlon is considered a wonder. He has been coming to the front rapidly. and there are many sports who believe he is the one man who can take the champion's measure. Just prior to his match with Terry McGovern last winter Corbett met Hanlon in a twenty round contest. To Corbett's surprise and the surprise of the followers of the game, Hanlon stayed the limit, and it was said that the Californian had a shade the best of the argument on points.

Up until this battle Hanloh had not been heard of much outside his native state, but since his battle with Corbett his career has been followed with considerable interest. Only two months ago Hanlon received the decision over Benny Yanger after twenty rounds.

Hanlon is looked upon as a logical candidate for championship honors. and he is considered the most dangerous man in the country for Corbett. The match will settle the question of championship without a doubt. WILSON ANDREWS.

The Rollo books and their less fahave long been out of fashion, yet today, in the period of the greatest and the best production of children's books ever known, there are no stories that quite take their place.

Their revival is one of the best signs of the marked improvement in children's taste, though the improvement elders who select their reading.

In stories which the child cannot apply to his own life, wrong ethics, even actual immoralities, are of no conse-

The closest and most loving observer the unmorality of "The Arabian Nights" and the other ancient fairy

These stories were not invented for children. They represent periods when action was large and crude, when the Golden Rule and the subtleties of present day deportment were alike unrecoguized. Obversely, wrong ethics in a story that a child must, whether consly or not, relate to his own ov perience are incalculably injurious.

A child who would be made to weet or have a germ of cruelty implanted him, if of a harder nature, by a recital of a boy tying a tin can to a cat's tail, will listen unaffected to the loody deeds of Jack the Giant Killer. Vices beyond the child's comprehension, evil happenings entirely removed from his sphere either by time or conditions, may be read by him with no resulting injury.

One would not suggest such literature in selecting a children's library. but as between that and the juvenile fiction that tends to give its readers false notions of their relations to society no one who has honestly studied children will hesitate.

The long derided Sunday school book style, in which the infant hero, after having borne oppression meekly, dies young, enjoining his elders to follow his example so as to meet him in heaven, has fortunately gone out of existence. But those books were not more harmful than some later popular fictions with their finer art and greater

"Tom Sawyer" is a book not for children, but for the enjoyment of mature minds. One must have the judgment of experience to receive without danor of harm the unnatural and exagserated presentation of life in the later part of Tom's adventures.

It is pretty certain that a child's spirtual nature would be safer with the 'Decameron" than with those stories vritten by a good woman from a good notive, the Elsie books. Still, there aust be ability of some sort behind he widest popularity and "one of he largest literary incomes" in the nited States, which is what we are ald of the author of these series. reover, children are wise and rewd critics except in so far as they e limited by poverty of experience. ut it is hard to realize that the most experienced child can find "convincgness" in a little girl who, though diantly beautiful, excessively rich d virtuous as an early Christian artyr, is disliked by her father and rsecuted by her other relatives; who the age of eight years plays the the acceptably, knits beautiful silk rses unassisted and (notwithstandpersecution otherwise) spends, thout supervision, considerable sums money. All this may appeal by the

It was intended that they should exchange views, and the Irishman had a good deal to say about Mr. Lecky's later work and was well able to put what he had to say in the most effective language. The door opened and Mr. Lecky was announced. He was introduced to the Irishman, and before the latter had time to say anything the historian began a political harangue which he kept going without cessation the whole time he was there. The Irishman at first tried to break in with a word, but he was swept away, as it were, in the unceasing flow of Mr. Lecky's language; so after a time he sat in amused bewilderment, waiting until nature gave out. But when Mr. Lecky felt he was getting exhausted he rose from his chair, shook hands with the hostess and her guest, keeping on talking all the time. They came out with him to the top of the staircase, but could not get a word edgeways even then, as he talked all the way down to the door and was even in an unfinished sentence when the door was shut behind him. They looked at each other and roared .-- Freeman's Journa

Whitman as an Editor. Whitman wrote on anything and everything, after the fashion of editors, sometimes with earnestness, sometimes with undisguised indifference. Here is a sample of an occasional sort: "To cure the toothache plunge your feet in cold water. Strange, but true." For "but" most people would read "if." The man who must supply a column at a given hour every day cannot make the quality uniform. > The Origin of Mezsotint. Colonel von Siegen, a Dutch artist of German extraction, holding an appointment at the court of the land grave of Hesse-Cassel, was the in ventor of mezzotint, that branch of engraving which comes nearest to nature, though it is far from being the best means of artistic expression.

It dates from about 1611 and is said to have been suggested by the rust on of the landgrave's mother, the dowager landgravine, which Siegen presented at court, stating that no copper or imagine how it was done.

Evelyn, in his "Sculptura," 1662, attributes the invention to Prince Rupert. An original letter of Siegen's still in existence proves this to be an error, for Siegen met Prince Rupert in Brussels in 1654 and disclosed the process to him then and there, knowing that the prince had already practiced etching.

More than a hundred engravers in mezzotint did for the pictures of Sir Joshua Reynolds what line engravers had done for Raphael.

Young Corbett is somewhat stout, but will speedily come down to his legitimate fighting weight. He is at his best at 127 pounds. While the champion never dissipates, he does not believe in maintaining top notch condition when not preparing to fight.

When out of training Young Corbett takes life comparatively easy, smoking a cigar now and then and occasionally taking a drink. He is of the opinion that the man who does not relax while not in training will last but a very short time.

Hanlon and Corbett will fight at 126 pounds. At this weight the Denverite is as fast as the wind. He will rush Hanion off his feet and probably send him down for the count before half of the scheduled twenty rounds are fin-

Corbett says:

"Hanlon is a clever lad, but he has no show with me. He is not the equal of Terry McGovern, and every one knows what I did to the Brooklynite.

"If Hanlon comes after me he will get his quietus early in the game. Should be resort to sprinting tactics of course he'll stay longer. He will not be able to keep out of my reach for any considerable time, however. He is my plum, and I intend to pluck him from the pugilistic tree.

"I would have liked to meet Ben Jordan in San Francisco," continued Corbett, "but it seems that he is not very strong in the west. With Jordan out of it at present, I have made arrangements to fight Hanlon and wipe out that draw he got with me. I was not at my best at that time. If I had fought Hanlon just about the time met McGovern I think the result would have been different. I am confident of victory, and I have no fear regarding my ability to defend the championship

Hanlon is considered a wonder. He has been coming to the front rapidly. and there are many sports who believe he is the one man who can take the champion's measure. Just prior to his match with Terry McGovern last winter Corbett met Hanlon in a twenty round contest. To Corbett's surprise and the surprise of the followers of the game, Hanlon stayed the limit, and it was said that the Californian had a shade the best of the argument on points.

Up until this battle Hanloh had not been heard of much outside his native state, but since his battle with Corbett his career has been followed with considerable interest. Only two months ago Hanlon received the decision over Benny Yanger after twenty rounds.

Hanlon is looked upon as a logical candidate for championship honors and he is considered the most dangerous man in the country for Corbett The match will settle the question of championship without a doubt.

Consumption as Discussed by the Medical Profession.

When Prof. Hoff's now famous prescription for consumption was first brought to the notice of the medical fraternity in this country, after Professor Hoff had achieved fame in Europe because of his discovery, few of the American physicians received it with much enthusiasm. They imagined it might be an emulsion of codliver oil, or a creosote preparation, or an inhaling apparatus, or a gold cure, or one of the several other advertised "cures" whose claims have melted before every true test.

Since they have learned its true value and that it is not a patent medicine, but a scientific preparation made from a formula given by Professor Hoff for the benefit of sufferers, doctors, hospitals, sanitariums and medical journals are advocating its adoption in all cases of consumption. There is an intimate association between TWO FACTS in connection with statistics on consumption. T One fact is that the report shows the percentage of deaths from consumption is decreasing. The mortality rate fell from 245 for every 10,000 persons to 190 for every 10,000 persons.

The other fact is that this decrease all occurred since the American Bureau of the Hoff Cure began sending out its medicine.

The medicine is furnished to sufferers at a trifle over the cost of compounding it, without any fancy profit such as secret and patent medicines charge. This is due to the philanthropy of Professor Hoff, who said his great discovery belonged to mankind and not to any one individual simply because he made the discovery.

That is practical socialism. It was the American Bureau of the Professor Hoff Cure which first mapped out the work of co-operation now being carried on broadcast and spreading from week to week all over the country.

Doctors, friends of the patients, druggists, relatives and kindly disposed people of all degrees are giving their help to make the work as general as possible, reaching every nook and cranny where consumption lurks. There is an opportunity for every one to co-operate in the grand movement of wiping consumption, with its attendant miseries, from the face of form. He said that the protective the continent. There is no coupon book required-no interchange of money-simply a beginning and a continuing of a charitable work which requires only an effort on the part of each individual.

Get the promise of every member of your family to look over his or her acquaintances and select some one who has consumption or who seems in immediate danger of it. The chances are very largely in favor of the latter class having the disease. Let each member of the family send the name of the person so selected to The American Bureau, at 10th Street and Third Ave., New York, so that the literature with reference to the Hoff treatment may be forwarded gratis. The name of the person sending the name of the sufferer will not be divulged to the sufferer, for the American Bureau appreciates and respects the feeling of delicacy with which a consumptive regards his condition.

In many instances physicians have been converted by their patients who have taken Professor Hoff's cure unknown to their medical advisers, and to-day thousands of the best American doctors regard Professor Hoff's cure as an ethical preparation to be used in all cases of cough and especially where there is doubt in diagnosis.

These physicians speak for themselves and their words of commendation need no explanation:

Japan Diet Dissolved.

Tokio, Dec. 12.-The diet has been dissolved. Hope has been entertained in official circles that in view of the extraordinary nature of the step taken by the lower house in its reply to the speech from the throne, the vote on the reply would be reversed. The allied parties, however, at meetings held outside the diet, decided the action taken should not be reversed, and the dissolution followed. It is now reported in official circles that the reply of the Russian government to the Japanese demands is on its way here, and it is forecasted that the final proposals of Japan are considerable modifications of the claims made in the last note. It is also said that Russia has made concessions regarding the difficulties in Manchuria.

Consumption as Discussed by the Medical

When Prof. Hoff's now famous prescription for consumption was first brought to the notice of the medical fraternity in this country, after Professor Hoff had achieved fame in Europe because of his discovery, few of the American physicians received it Profession. the American physicians received with much enthusiasm. They imagined it might be an emulsion of codliver oil, or a creosote preparation, or an inhaling apparatus, or a gold cure, or one of the several other advertised "cures" whose claims have melted before every true test. Since they have learned its true value and that it is not a patent medicine, but a scientific preparation made from a formula given by Professor Hoff for the benefit of sufferers, doctors, hospitals, sanitariums and medical journals are advocating its adoption in all cases of consumption. There is an intimate association between TWO FACTS in connection with statistics on consumption. T One fact is that the report shows the percentage of deaths from consumption is decreasing. The mortality rate fell from 245 for every 10,000 persons to 190 for every 10,000 persons.

The other fact is that this decrease all occurred since the American Bureau of the Hoff Cure began sending out its medicine.

The medicine is furnished to sufferers at a trifle over the cost of compounding it, without any fancy profit such as secret and patent medicines charge. This is due to the philanthropy of Professor Hoff, who said his great discovery belonged to mankind and not to any one individual simply because he made the discovery.

That is practical socialism. It was the American Bureau of the Professor Hoff Cure which first mapped out the work of co-operation now being carried on broadcast and spreading from week to week all over the country. Doctors, friends of the patients, druggists, relatives and kindly disposed people of all degrees are giving their help to make the work as general as possible, reaching every nook and cranny where consumption lurks.

There is an opportunity for every one to co-operate in the grand movement of wiping consumption, with its attendant miseries, from the face of the continent. There is no coupon book required-no interchange of money-simply a beginning and a continuing of a charitable work which requires only an effort on the part of each individual.

Get the promise of every member of your family to look over his or her acquaintances and select some one who has consumption or who seems in immediate danger of it. The chances are very largely in favor of the latter class having the disease. Let each member of the family send the name of the person so selected to The American Bureau, at 10th Street and Third Ave., New York, so that the literature with reference to the Hoff treatment may be forwarded gratis. The name of the person sending the name of the sufferer will not be divulged to the sufferer, for the American Bureau appreciates and respects the feeling of delicacy with which a consumptive regards his condition.

In many instances physicians have been converted by their patients who have taken Professor Hoff's cure unknown to their medical advisers, and to-day thousands of the best American doctors regard Professor Hoff's cure as an ethical preparation to be used in all cases of cough and especially where there is doubt in diagnosis.

These physicians speak for themselves and their words of commendation need no explanation:

Professor Hoff desires his cure to be in the hands of every sufferer. It is humanity's medicine. The presription is compounded in accordance with Prof. Hoff's directions and sent out by the American Bureau at Third Avenue and 10th Street, New York, at $1.00 per bottle. For greater convenience the remedy may be had at the same price from the well and favorably known firm mentioned below.

The triangular trade mark of the American Bureau of Professor Hoff's Cure must be on the label, and this is the guarantee to the purchaser that it is the exact prescription used by Prof. Hoff at Vienna.

A 64-page book, containing complete descriptive treatise on the Professor Hoff Cure, and accurate reports of several hundred cases, is mailed free on application or may be obtained by calling at these well known druggists'.

IMPORTANT.—Other Hoff cures not bearing this triangular trade mark are not the authentic preparation authorized by the American Bureau. You can obtain the genuine Hoff Cure at most drug stores. The great body of honorable druggists do not stoop to substitution by selling something "just as good" that means more profit to them. The genuine Hoff cure can always be procured of the well-known druggists.

M'CREARY MADE: MAIDEN SPEECH

Strongly Supports Cuban Reciprocity Bill-Isthmian Question Takes Up Time of House-President and His Policy Vigorously Defended.

Washington, Dec. 12.-There were two speeches in the senate on the Cuban reciprocity bill, one of them a great one by a Democrat in support of the bill and the other one by a Republican speech was made by Mr. Bard, of California, who contended that the United States was under no obligation to give further aid to Cuba, especially as to do so we must pursue a course in injury to our own industries.

Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, made his maiden speech in the senate and supported the bill as in line with our past magnanimous course towards Cuba, and especially because he believed it to be a step towards tariff reform. He said that the protective policy of the United States already had brought about retaliation by Germany, and he predicted that other European nations, possibly including Great Britain, soon would follow the example set by that country.

The birth of the republic of Panama and its recognition by this government was the subject of a spirted debate in the house. Mr. Dinsmore (Dem., Ark.), during consideration of the pensions appropriation bill, severely criticized the administration in connection with the canal, and Mr. Hitt (Rep., Ill.), chairman of the foreign affairs committee, replied in a vigorous defense of the president and his Central American policy. Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, how. ever, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. Address
